

Lisa M. Wilusz

Lisa Wilusz serves as USDA's Director for the Office of Procurement and Property Management. Recently appointed to this position in February 2010, Lisa is responsible for providing policy, oversight and guidance in the areas of procurement, property management, environmental stewardship, and employee safety. Lisa is taking steps to strengthen USDA's acquisition workforce, improve procurement processes, and increase outreach to promote awards to small and disadvantaged firms and farmers. She oversees the Federal BioPreferred Program, which encourages the development and use of bio-based products, and is committed to meeting or exceeding Federal sustainability goals. Lisa has 15 years experience in the Federal government working in a variety of management functions, including procurement, information technology, and civil rights. Lisa has managed several enterprise systems for Federal agencies, including USDA and the U.S. Department of Transportation, and is certified as a Project Management Professional.
